Labour shortages are weighing on activity

Japanese economic surveys are sending out mixed signals. On the positive side, the business condition index from the Tankan survey improved from 8 in Q2 to 10 in Q3, driven by services: business confidence in the sector was the highest since 1991. The PMI for services is also proving resilient. Although down 0.5 points in September, it remains in expansive territory at 53.8. Conversely, the manufacturing PMI fell further into the contraction zone for the fourth consecutive month (-1 point to 48.5). As a result, the composite PMI dipped to 52.1 in September. The Economy Watchers Survey dropped from 3.7 points to 49.9 points in September.

Japanese inflation fell slightly to 3.2% y/y in August (compared to 3.3% in the previous month). Food products remain the main contributor to price rises (+8.8% y/y for a contribution of 2.3 pp to headline inflation). Conversely, energy deflation is intensifying (-9.8% y/y), subtracting, as a result, nearly 1 pp from headline inflation. However, pressure on production prices is easing. The PPI index slowed by 1.3 pp to 2% y/y in September, suggesting a stabilisation or even a drop in consumer price inflation in the coming months. This signal is in line with the fall in inflation in the Tokyo region to under 3% in September. However, the yen’s historic depreciation continues, and the exchange rate with the US dollar is now close to USD/JPY 150, which is likely to fuel more imported inflation.

The historic labour shortage represents a further challenge. The employment diffusion index from the Tankan survey dropped to -33 in Q3 and could reach -37 in Q4 according to the latest forecasts. If this were to happen, this would be the lowest level seen since 1991. At 2.7% in September, the unemployment rate remained stable and 0.5 pp above the 2.2% low posted in December 2019. Despite the tight labour market, nominal wages are still not rising, and real wages remain in negative territory, at -2.5% y/y in August. This is impacting household confidence, as well as household consumption, which fell year-on-year in August for the 6th consecutive month (-3.4% y/y), according to the monthly survey by the Ministry of Labour.

Against this backdrop, we anticipate a slowdown in activity in Q3 (growth of 0.1% q/q after reaching 1.0% on average per quarter in H1), before a slight recovery in Q4 (0.3% q/q). However, favourable carry-over effect in 2022 should keep growth at a relatively high level of 2.0% y/y for 2023 as a whole.

Guillaume Derrien (completed on 16 October 2023)
The information and opinions contained in this document have been obtained from, or are based on, public sources believed to be reliable, but there is no guarantee of the accuracy, completeness or fitness for any particular purpose of such information and such information may not have been independently verified by BNP Paribas or by any person. None of BNP Paribas, any of its subsidiaries, undertakings or affiliates, its directors, members, managers, attorneys, agents or employees accepts any responsibility or liability whatsoever or makes any representation or warranty, express or implied, as to the accuracy and completeness of the information or any opinion based thereon and contained in this document and it should not be relied upon as such. This document does not constitute research, as defined under MiFID II, or form any part of any offer to sell or issue and is not a solicitation of any offer to purchase any financial instrument, nor shall it or any part of it nor the fact of its distribution form the basis of, or be relied on, in connection with any contract or investment decision. Information and opinions contained in this document are published for the information of recipients, but are not to be relied upon as authoritative or taken in substitution for the exercise of judgment by any recipient, are subject to change without notice. In providing this document, BNP Paribas does not offer investment, financial, legal, tax or any other type of advice to, nor has it any fiduciary duties towards, recipients. Any reference to past performance is not indicative of future performance, which may be better or worse than prior results. Any hypothetical, past performance or simulation is for illustrative purposes only and should not be used as guidance. In any way, of future performance. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no BNP Paribas group company accepts any liability whatsoever in respect of any direct or consequential loss arising from any use or reliance on any material contained in this document even when advised of the possibility of such losses. All estimates and opinions included in this document are made as of the date of this document. Unless otherwise indicated in this document there is no intention to update this document. BNP Paribas makes no market in, or may, at any time, offer, acquire or sell, or purchase or sell, any issue or person mentioned in this document or derivatives thereon. Prices, yields and other similar information included in this document are included for information purposes however numerous factors will affect market pricing at any particular time, such information may be subject to rapid change and there is no certainty that transactions could be executed at any specified price. BNP Paribas may have a financial interest in any issuer or person mentioned in this document, including a long or short position in their securities and/or orders, forwards or other derivative instruments based thereon, or vice versa. BNP Paribas, including its offices and employees may serve or have served as an officer, director or in any capacity, for any person mentioned in this document. BNP Paribas may, from time to time, solicit, perform or have performed investment banking, underwriting or other services (including acting as sub-adviser, manager, underwriter or lender) within the last 12 months for any person referred to in this document. BNP Paribas may be a party to an agreement with any person relating to the production of this document. BNP Paribas may to the extent permitted by law, have used upon or used the information contained herein or in the document, or the analysis on which it was based, before the document was published. BNP Paribas may receive or intend to seek compensation for investment banking services in the next three months from or in relation to any person mentioned in this document. Any person mentioned in this document may have been provided with relevant sections of this document prior to its publication in order to verify its factual accuracy.

This document was produced by a BNP Paribas group company. This document is for the use of intended recipients and may not be reproduced (in whole or in part) or delivered or transmitted to any other person without the prior written consent of BNP Paribas. By accepting or using this document you agree to this.

BNP Paribas is a societe anonyme incorporated in France, licensed and supervised as a credit institution by the European Central Bank (ECB) and as an investment services provider by the Autorité de contrôle prudentiel et de résolution (ACPR) and Autorité des marchés financiers (AMF), and having its registered office at 28, boulevard de la Villette, 75010 Paris, France.

Some or all of the information contained in this document may already have been published on https://globalmarkets.bnp-paribas.com.